

Welcome to the Five Lamps Arts Festival 2024

We are proud to launch the brochure for this year's Five Lamps Arts Festival. Our theme for 2024 is water - a timely and timeless reminder that we are a maritime city and that the hinterland of Five Lamps is bounded by water - from the Royal Canal to the Liffey, from the Blessington Street Basin through the Docklands to the Dublin Bay Biosphere.

Like creativity and art, water flows and moves in unexpected ways. It transports us to new places, brings life, and refreshes us.

We hope that you will jump right into our exciting 2024 programme. As always, our programme leadership team of Róisín and Marcela have sought out a fantastic array of artistic performers and creators to bring the Festival to life. We aim to showcase local talents within shouting distance of the Five Lamps, be they established or just newly making waves.

Like a stone makes ripples, we hope our 2024 festival impacts you and your community. The festival's ethos is to ensure that art in all its forms is accessible and enjoyable, and we hope you find much in the programme to engage and move you.

Catherine Flanagan Chairperson - Five Lamps Arts Festival

"The arts, culture, education and everything that is creative are the foundations of a strong society" Michael D. Higgins 2024 sees the 17th year of the Five Lamps Arts Festival which brings such colour and energy to the North East Inner City annually through the arts. Each year the Five Lamps Arts Festival grows its programme ensuring that there is something for all members of the community across. This year does not disappoint with live music, dance, visual arts and literary events.

As the Independent Chair of the North East Inner City Initiative, I am delighted to support the 2024 Festival. It is important to acknowledge the determination and drive of the Five Lamps Arts Festival and volunteers who, since 2007, provide a platform for local artists. Although the Festival is the highlight of the year, the Five Lamps Arts Festival holds a number of events through the year, promoting the area and making the North East Inner City a safe, attractive and vibrant living and working environment for the community with opportunities for all to lead full lives.

Wishing the Five Lamps Arts Festival Committee the best of success!

MONOGRAPH is a collection of photographs celebrating the story of Dublin's North Inner City's people, places, and rich cultural heritage.

Embark on a visual journey through the lens of Kevin Newcomen, a dedicated volunteer turned amateur photographer, as he presents his inaugural exhibition capturing the essence of the Five Lamps Arts Festival.

Join us in celebrating Kevin's talent as he unveils his unique perspective, which has been cultivated over the years of devotion to the festival. Don't miss this opportunity to witness the magic of community and creativity through his captivating photographs.

Kevin Newcomen currently lives in Athlone and grew up in Balbriggan Co Dublin. He has studied photography at Marino College of Further Education and Coláiste Dhulaigh, College of Further Education. His interest in photography began when he won an Ilford camera in a Bord Báinne essay competition when attending Balrothery N S. Kevin is interested in all genres of photography but is especially drawn to storytelling and documentary photography. He is influenced by photographers such as Robert Frank, Alen McWeeney and Rineke Dijkstra. Kevin is an associate of the Irish Photographic Federation and the Royal Photographic Society and was SMEDIA news photographer of the year in 2019.

The exhibition work was inspired by the creative and devoted people who light up North East Inner City each year through their participation in the Five Lamps Arts Festival.

This reading is a wonderful opportunity to savour the experience of translation from Hiberno English to Brazilian Portuguese. The poet is O'Donnell, and the translator is the renowned translator and writer Lucy Colline from Curitíba, Brazil. The book from which the readings come is called ONDE ESTOU OS PÁSSAROS, based O'Donnell's 2020 collection MASSACRE OF THE BIRDS. Last autumn, she did a reading tour in Brazil during which these poems featured strongly.

Reader Sara Ribeiro is Brazilian by birth and Irish by heart. One day she decided to go to Ireland for a few months and never returned. An advocate for disability and LGBTQIA+ rights, her mission is to transform her deepest secrets and scariest fears into rhymes. She is the author of the Poetry Collection "They Will Say You're Nuts" available at Amazon.

'What shaped this curious boy into a 'Utopian'? Coming of age in an awakening decade that was 1970s Ireland, searching out Utopian visions of social justice, psychotherapeutics and macrobiotics. Then taking his place as a social worker, he grapples with real lives, while trying to keep faith with a self and a social work that aspires to the 'empowerment and liberation of people'.

This is a story of illusion, delusion and disillusion, as he reflects on the journey'.

Sign up for this workshop to unlock it and tell it in new ways.

In this workshop you will be guided to use a range of techniques to bring out the range of stories to tell:

- You will use street theatre techniques to unlock and reenact your own personal stories
- You will then develop and expand these stories as a group in order to create interactive theatre based on them.

But that's only the first half of the workshop!

Peter Sheridan's latest play is a poignant and hilarious tale of the lives of two women from very different backgrounds.

Philo is dyed in the wool inner city with a big personality and a big mouth to match. Sister Rosaleen, her boss, is a thoughtful woman who has embraced the religious life in the wake of a failed relationship. On the face of it, they seem like polar opposites. But they do share one thing. They are both carrying secrets, and they are both running from the past and once the truth of their former lives starts to reveal itself, they find that they have much more in common than they ever thought possible. They are both determined not to be beaten down by the system, and their cheerfulness in the face of adversity shines through and brings this drama to a heart-warming and unexpected resolution.

Along the journey, we'll delve into the lives of notable figures, from aristocrats to intellectuals, who left their mark on the area. This walking tour offers a unique opportunity to discover the architectural and historical significance of Dublin's past, rich with individuals who shaped not only the city but also the nation and beyond.

With this guided walking tour, you will get our "Dorset Street" collectable illustrated booklet.

Join a captivating talk with Priscilla Robinson Wolf, a seasoned treasure hunter who has scoured charity shops, skips, and jumble sales for four decades. Concerned about the potential decline of the beloved chaotic and eclectic type of charity shop in favour of more organised establishments, Priscilla stumbled upon the Verschenkmarkt (Free Shop) in Germany. Delve into the intriguing analogy of charity shops being akin to cats and share your own anecdotes! The event also features a charity shop raffle, and perhaps a touch of "death cleaning."

THANK YOU

Now, for all the thanks, I want to thank a few very important people: my family, especially my husband Tom, the volunteers and interns who come from so many countries across the world. Without them the festival would be so much more difficult to organise, the artists and the arts organisations, our funders and sponsors, The Central Bank of Ireland and in particular Eoin O'Reilly, Coopers Cross, An Foras na Gaelige, Poetry Ireland, The Brazilian Embassy, The Office of Public Works, Irish Rail, The Dean Hotel and Studios, Charleville Mall Library and librarian Anne Gannon, the Arts Council of Ireland, Dublin Port, Dublin City Council, and especially the NEIC our biggest sponsor and supporter. We thank them and all our other sponsors and grant givers very much.

I want to thank the festival board most sincerely, especially chairperson Catherine Flanagan, who works tirelessly on behalf of the festival, and Deirdre Flannery, who is leaving the board after eight years.

Thank you so much for all your work.

Thank you so much to Maria Valencia, Andrea Kett, Sany Dallarosa, Eduardo Nogueira, and the whole backroom team!

To Marcela Parducci, our Project Manager, many thanks for your hard work and love for the Festival.
